

The Refugee & Migrant Crisis in Europe

As a result of the refugee and migrant crisis which largely affects Europe, countries within and bordering the European Union are now witnessing fervent conversations about the EU's role in world affairs. The dialogue spans human rights, war and conflict resolution, migration, economics, and issues of identity that continually raise the question of what Europe is, who is European and where Europe's borders lie. As part of the Divided by the Sea exhibit, the Center for European Studies at UNC-CH has created this flyer with resources for teaching and learning about the ongoing refugee and migration crisis and its impact on Europe.
